

In-demand clothing manufacturer- FROM STRENGTH TO STRENGTH

Targeting sport groups, corporate clients and schools, this investment opportunity has an outstanding reputation for supplying quality sportswear both within New South Wales and interstate.

During its 16-year history the business has established a large and loyal client base generating excellent turnover and constant demand. The size of its existing clientele and the business' reputation for speedy product delivery continues to attract new customers.

The asking price includes all plant and equipment with the business capable of producing a broad range of customised products, including: Polos, T-Shirts, jerseys, shorts, socks and more.

While offering clients a broad range of services, sublimation printing has been a key factor in the business' success, delivering a quality end product at reduced prices.

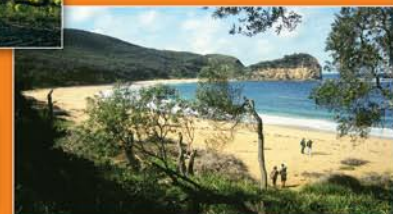

Located in a provincial city just off the New South Wales Central Coast, the factory and shopfront enjoy an ideal position close to the town's main street with a large volume of traffic passing at its doorstep. Central to many of its clients the current premises can either be leased or purchased in addition to the asking price.

The strong regional growth in the surrounding area and your own solid business skills will see this opportunity continue to go from strength to strength. Locally, the corporate clientele is a particularly lucrative market yet to be fully tapped into.

A mix of both city and country, the local town is central to all the best features of New South Wales. Only a twenty minute drive to Newcastle and the coastline, you'll have an array of pristine beaches and expansive parks to explore, and both Sydney and the renowned wine growing region of the Hunter Valley are within easy reach. With plenty of local shopping, education and health facilities you'll enjoy the convenience of city living but within a laidback country atmosphere.
